Beverly McKay has always been fascinated by nature – animals, plants and landscapes. She has attained a B A (Hons) degree in Scientific and Natural History Illustration.

Currently she resides in the United Arab Emirates. She can often be found walking in the sand dunes or mountain wadis in search of birds, plants, reptiles and other life forms to photograph and then paint at her studio as illustrations suitable for publication.

Extensive travel has allowed her to photograph wildlife in a wide variety of locations around the world. Some of these places include Malaysia, Cambodia, Tanzania, New Caledonia and Argentina. Using primarily watercolour and gouache she works from her own photos to create illustrations which convey the beauty and fragility of the various natural environments and their inhabitants.

Beverly's current task is to complete a set of artworks based on her Argentina travels.
